The Tammy Borgman

S·C·H·O·L·A·R·S·H·I·P

Tammy Borgman, while a student at Northwest Nazarene College, died in an auto accident on June 8, 1985. Those who knew and loved her have established this scholarship in her memory.

Tammy was a special person who cared deeply for people and responded to those who needed attention. While a student, she was involved in volunteer work with unwed mothers and in a missions ministry to street people. She was a talented student who demonstrated a desire to develop her academic ability and the skills needed to serve others. She was inquisitive, disciplined, and very anxious to find her calling. During her first year of college Tammy decided she would major in social work. She would have been an excellent social worker.

Though very busy, Tammy also had time for fun and friends. She was looking forward to playing soccer during her sophomore year and spent time working out and developing her athletic skills.

The Tammy Borgman Scholarship will be awarded to students majoring in social work, who have demonstrated the qualities that were so evident in Tammy's life. Recipients will be disciplined academically, will reflect a commitment to serving others, and will be persons who give attention to the development of all their abilities.
