PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Dear Alumni and Friends,

In 1919, Seek ye first the Kingdom of God was adopted as the motto of Northwest Nazarene University.

We exist to seek God. We seek His rule and reign in our lives and in the life of the institution. We seek to be citizens of His Kingdom, to order ourselves in such a way that all we are, do and say are in harmony with what it means to live in His Kingdom. Consequently, we focus on Jesus Christ His Son, the One full of grace and truth.

The pages that follow provide glimpses into the academic life of Northwest Nazarene University. I want you to know that behind these images stands a fundamental commitment to seeking truth and being Christ-like throughout our curriculum. Here are some of the hallmarks of Kingdom learning at NNU:

HALLMARKS OF KINGDOM LEARNING AT NNU

- Truth is embodied in the person of Jesus Christ. Therefore, all we teach, discover and do is centered upon the One in whom truth coheres.
- Truth is revealed via Scripture. Our community, both teacher and student, is first and foremost a people of one book.
- Truth is considered via reason. We welcome the discovery of created order, the investigation of human creativity and human discovery, as well as the intellectual consideration of the good, the true, the beautiful.
- Truth is practiced via tradition. We look to the early church and Wesley for models that foster growth to Christ-likeness, as well as philosophical interaction with the schools of philosophy from throughout the centuries.
- Truth is explored via experience. To lovingly serve is learned in experience. Wesleyan education is practical and dynamic. We learn and validate by doing.
- The Christ-like life is relational. We instruct and promote love to God, to self and to our neighbor. We create a Kingdom community.
- The Christ-like life is disciplined. The rigor of study is balanced with the spiritual disciplines to foster a life-long learner who is also a life-long seeker of righteousness.
- The Christ-like life is caring. We teach and model compassion, the "social holiness" that is at the heart of Wesleyanism. It is evident in the projects, priorities and passion of the university.
- The Christ-like life is welcoming. Though we are distinctly Wesleyan, and specifically Nazarene, in our doctrine we are catholic of spirit, welcoming and engaging all who call on Jesus.
- The Christ-like life is lived in the process and crisis of dying to self in order to learn to live with God at the center of our soul. Our institutional worship and nurture identifies, emphasizes and models this pouring out of self in order to be filled with Him.

Sincerely,

David Alexander, President

Northwest Nazarene University is a Christian comprehensive university offering more than 60 areas of study and master's programs in six disciplines. In all of its programs, the university is dedicated to student growth in Christ-like character, academic excellence, creative engagement and social responsiveness. In addition to its 85-acre campus in Nampa, Idaho, and the MBA and STEP programs offered in Boise, Idaho, the university has cooperative programs in 10 countries. Founded in 1913, the university serves approximately 1,900 undergraduate and graduate students, and approximately 10,000 continuing education students.

STUDENT STEWARDS

Wise investments deliver big returns for NNU students

By Cherissa Roebuck

Earn as much as you can. Save as much as you can. Invest as much as you can. Give as much as you can.” —John Wesley Earn. Save. Invest. Give. These four concepts provide a framework for 20 NNU students as they face a challenging endeavor, annually investing and managing $100,000 of the university’s endowment.

This group of students, members of the NNU Student Managed Fund, has served as investment managers for the Fund since 2004, when the Investment Committee of the Foundation Board gave them an initial $50,000 to invest. It’s a responsibility they take very seriously, and their commitment to excellence is paying big dividends. Not only are these students outperforming many professional investment managers in their earnings from the Fund, but they are also gaining invaluable hands-on experience in the finance industry, said Peter Crabb, NNU business faculty member and advisor for the Fund.

Members of the Student Managed Fund meet regularly throughout each semester to research, discuss and vote on the companies in which to invest. They spend real university funds to invest in real companies, and then they utilize the Russell 2000 Value Index as their benchmark to evaluate their performance as investment managers.

Numbers don’t lie. These students are making good investments, and the results reflect that, said Sandra Dalton, first vice president of investments at Merrill Lynch, who serves as the custodian for the Fund.

The cumulative return the students earned on the initial $50,000 in the Fund over the past four years is 27.6 percent. The Russell 2000 Value Index return over the same period is 15.01 percent. The Wall Street Journal recently reported that the average annual return of Small Cap Value Funds (the investment category the student Fund falls under) was 3.6 percent. The NNU Fund returned an average annual rate of 6.17 percent.

"In other words, over this period the students have outperformed not only their benchmark, but also the average performance of professional money managers with the same investment objectives," said Crabb.

These percentages translate into a total $13,800 the students have earned since 2005. This money goes directly toward scholarships for NNU students.

Joel Pearsall, NNU vice president for financial affairs, said that the Fund has certainly benefited the entire university.

"Particularly for about the first 18 to 20 months that the Fund was in place, these students have been some of our better investment managers for the university's endowment," said Pearsall.

Crabb first had the idea for establishing the Student Managed Fund after hearing about a similar program from a Coalition of Christian Colleges and Universities colleague at Houghton College in New York. He proposed the idea to the NNU Foundation board in 2004, and they approved it and provided the students $50,000 to invest. NNU became the first Nazarene university to implement a Student Managed Fund.

Sandra Dalton of Merrill Lynch said this is one of a limited number of university programs where students invest real money.

"Many similar student funds do this with 'dummy money,'" Dalton said. "This is a unique program because the students are using real money, and I believe they take the Fund much more seriously because of that."

The Foundation Board was excited about the opportunity for more personal interaction between the board and the students. The students personally report on the progress of the Fund to the board multiple times each year, said Crabb. The board requested that the students use a prudent investment style and focus on investing in small cap values (smaller, below market values).

The students have not only met but have exceeded the board's expectations, so much so that the board gave the Fund an additional $50,000 in January 2008, for a total of $100,000. The Fund utilized the second $50,000 from the board and created a "Growth Fund" for investing in fast-growing, up-and-coming companies, as compared to the Small Cap Value stocks they had previously been investing in.

"I was part of the group that started the Growth Fund last year," said Preston O'Malley, a sophomore accounting major from Monroe, Wash. "It was exciting and difficult at times to branch away from what we had been investing in and start somewhere fresh."

The students have a strong sense of responsibility and stewardship over the money the University has entrusted to them, said Crabb.

"As investment managers go, these students are underinvested, meaning that much of their available funds are still in the mutual fund waiting to be invested. This is because they have been conservative investors. They do a lot of homework, research and discussion before they make any investments. Because of this, they have never had to go back to the board and say, 'Sorry, we've lost $20,000 or $30,000.'

Sandra Dalton said she attended some of the meetings when the students are reporting to the board, and she has been impressed with the diligence and hard work the students have put into the Fund. Dalton believes the students' accountability to the board encourages their diligence.

"The students can get drilled by the board," said Dalton. "The Board members are businessmen, and they can be tough on the students. This is real money, and the board takes it very seriously. From what I've seen, the students have responded to the board's questions with well-thought-out answers."

As a member of the Foundation Board's Investment Committee, Joel Pearsall has had a front row seat to observe the members of the Fund in action.

"When the students report to the committee twice per year, it becomes a very lively dialogue,"

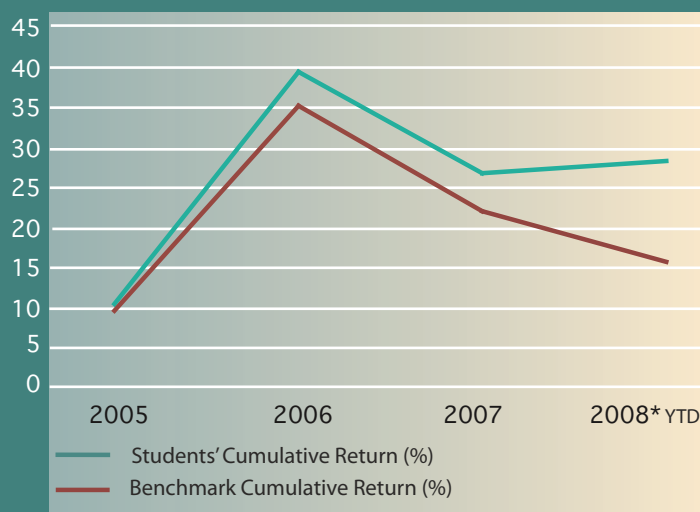

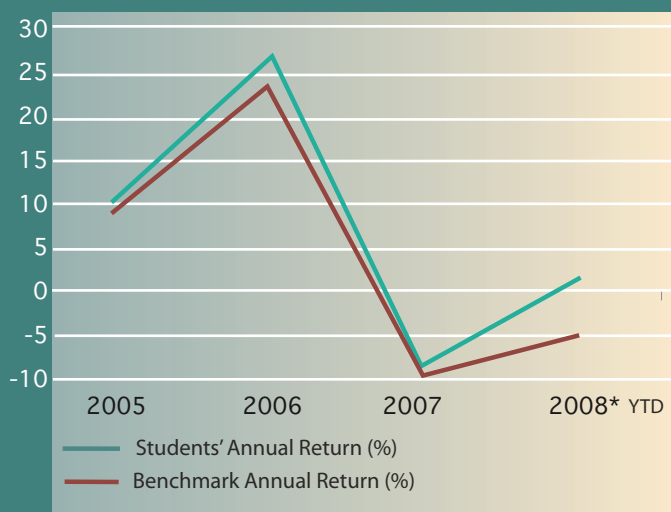

"In the classroom we talk about investing, but with the Fund we actually get to do it," said Puga.

Pearsall said. "I have been consistently proud of the students. We have some sharp students; they have been both eloquent and intelligent in their responses to questions from the committee."

Student Managed Fund member Ashley Puga said it means a lot to the students that NNU trusts them to make good business decisions about the Fund. "The board's confidence in us motivates us to work hard and make good investments," said Puga, a senior accounting major from Meridian, Idaho.

She said another great motivator for the group is the knowledge that their success will directly help other students through scholarships. But for Puga and the other students involved in the Fund, the lasting value of their experience is the real-world practice they get as investment managers. "In the classroom we talk about investing, but with the Fund we actually get to do it," said Puga.

The students are actually the ones who make all decisions regarding particular investments. "Even though Dr. Crabb has a lot of knowledge and experience in the industry, he won't make the decisions for us. He wants us to have the whole learning experience," Puga said.

Crabb said this hands-on experience has served different students in distinct ways. For some, their experience with the Fund helps them realize they do not want to pursue careers in the finance industry. "That's been one of the real values of the Fund," Crabb said.

"It's far better for students to make that decision now than to wait until they are already involved in a career they don't enjoy."

But for other students, their experience with the Fund serves as a springboard into finance careers. "I've had graduates tell me they spent an entire job interview telling about their experience with the Fund because the interviewers were so interested in it," he said. "The Fund has helped some of our students land great first jobs in the finance industry."

NNU proudly introduces 15 new or returning faculty members for the 2008-2009 academic year.

David Blowers, M.A., assistant professor of sociology, was raised in Papua New Guinea and served as a missionary in Haiti for 13 years.

Randy Bynum, Ph.D., assistant professor of Bible, enjoys playing guitar and building model railroads.

Janice Cantrell, Ph.D., professor of education, specializes in education law and has a book being released this fall.

Terry Cantrell, M.A., associate professor of education and a 1970 NNU graduate, still holds the NNU track and field record for high hurdles.

Caroline Collins, M.S.W., assistant professor of social work, enjoys spending time with her husband and three children.

Benjamin Fischer, Ph.D., assistant professor of English, will teach early British literature, Shakespeare, modern drama, linguistics and composition.

Mary Jones, Ph.D., associate professor and director of continuing studies, comes to NNU from the University of Hawaii to teach online professional development classes.

Donna Lowther, M.S.N., assistant professor of nursing, is a member of Sigma Theta Tau, the American Nurses Association and International Nurse Practitioners of Idaho.

Susan Perkins, M.A., assistant professor of counseling, is interested in researching the factors of effective marriage and family therapy and the impact of technological developments on families.

CAROLINE COLLINS, M.S.W.

MICHAEL PITTS, PH.D.

XUEYI WANG, PH.D.

Michael Pitts, Ph.D., associate professor of counseling, is involved with the pastoral ministry at his church and has served 18 years in higher education.

William Robison, D.C., assistant professor of biology, has been a chiropractor in Nampa since 2002.

Scott Slater, L.M.S.W., assistant professor of social work, specializes in child welfare, foster care licensing and children's residential facilities.

Gene Schandorff, M.A., administrative faculty, has served as university chaplain for the last 16 years and now joins the religion faculty to teach spiritual formation and pastoral care along with chaplaincy duties.

Dick Van Schyndel, M.A.M., associate professor of business, collects saltwater tropical fish and coaches CEOs of several local private businesses in his spare time.

Xueyi Wang, Ph.D., assistant professor of computer science, has research interests that include bioinformatics, computational geometry, data mining and machine learning.

This year NNU implemented a rank system to distinguish each professor's educational credentials, years of post-secondary instruction, scholarship, teaching effectiveness and service. Faculty are expected to demonstrate increasing effectiveness in each area. Faculty members are placed in four tiers and must possess the following credentials for each ranking:

- Professor: possess a doctorate and have at least 10 years of post-secondary experience
- Associate Professor: pursuing a doctorate and have at least five years of post-secondary experience
- Assistant Professor: possess a master's degree and other qualifications
- Instructor: possess a master's degree

2005-2008 Total Student Enrollment

NNU ENROLLMENT REACHES ALL-TIME HIGH

This fall NNU enrolled the largest group of new students, a 25 percent increase over last year, an all-time record. Total enrollment indicates a six percent increase that totals 1,944 students: 1,329 undergraduates and 615 graduate students confirming steady growth in both program enrollments.

"We are pleased to announce this all-time record enrollment of 425 new students," said Vice President for Enrollment Services and Marketing Dr. Eric Forseth. "The growth is characterized by a significant increase in the first-time freshmen class, a steady increase in transfer students and stable retention of previous students."

Endowed and foundation need-based scholarships made it possible for NNU to be an option for students with demonstrated financial need. NNU Director of Admissions Stacey Berggren added, "Increased scholarship funding for students is a contributing factor to rising enrollment. These numbers confirm our commitment to delivering quality academic programs and a strong Christian education."

"Graduate programs provide continuing educational opportunities for professionals around the world," said Dr. Mark Maddix, director of graduate programs. "From pastors and laymen in Germany, to providing an educational opportunity to area teachers and school counselors, the University is committed to providing quality graduate programs focused on the professional's educational experience, both academically and spiritually."

Joel Pearsall appointed vice president for University Advancement

President David Alexander, with the approval of the Board of Trustees, named Joel Pearsall, 1980 NNU graduate, vice president for university advancement in July. Pearsall served as NNU's vice president for financial affairs and general counsel since 1999.

The vice president for university advancement provides leadership and oversight of the development and fundraising functions while coordinating the oversight of planned giving, major donors, the University Fund, endowments, external foundations, governmental relations, master planning and the NNU Foundation Board.

"The strength of the Office of University Advancement is well known. I am humbled to be asked to lead this area, and I look forward to working with the Foundation Board of Directors, alumni, community and friends as we continue to advance the mission of Northwest Nazarene University," commented Pearsall.

New sculpture park beautifies Brandt Center lawn

The Brandt Center lawn now features a sculpture park complete with three sculptures, beautiful landscaping and a water fountain. Professor emeritus, Dr. Mary Shaffer and Assistant Professor Amanda Hamilton coordinated the project's design. A dedication ceremony will be held during Homecoming & Family Weekend on Friday, Nov. 7 at 5 p.m.

Campus improvements

The University undertook nine campus improvement projects this summer while major construction continued on the Thomas Family Health and Science Center.

Clean-up efforts from the March arson fire concluded on the Johnson Sports Center (JSC) with the addition of an indoor soccer field. The JSC parking lot was slurry coated and restriped before the facility reopened to returning students. A new entry lobby, handicapped bathrooms, elevator and a complete fire sprinkler system were added to the Wiley Learning Center. On the other side of campus, sod was laid for the new intercollegiate soccer field, and a new parking lot was paved across from the field. The recently acquired Campus Corner, known to some as the location of long-time barber Razor Ray, was leveled.

Also, more than 60 trees were planted around campus, and extra lighting was installed along the widened walking paths through Finkbeiner Park to Corlett and Olsen residence halls.

Church of the Nazarene centennial celebration

To commemorate the centennial anniversary of the Church of the Nazarene, NNU will host several exciting events during the month of October. NNU joined congregations around the world at a centennial service in the Brandt Center's Swayne Auditorium on Oct. 5.

A special photo exhibition, "Northwest Nazarenes," was displayed in the Brandt Center lobby for this event. The exhibition tells the visual story of a number of regional churches that were organized prior to the 1908 inception of the Church of the Nazarene.

On Oct. 19, the Friesen Art Galleries will feature "Picturing Faith," another exhibition including four dozen black-and-white photographs depicting American religious life during the Great Depression.

The Walker Evans photograph (pictured above) is an anchor piece to the show. Both exhibitions will be on display until Nov. 8.

Class of 2012 welcomed to campus

Over 425 freshmen and transfer students were welcomed to campus in August for New Student Orientation (NSO). After moving into their residence halls, freshmen and transfer students participated in activities to introduce them to classmates, NNU personnel and campus life.

Each year during NSO Rendezvous, student groups are invited to faculty and staff homes for dinner and fellowship. Freshman Alison Wolfgang said, "My favorite part of welcome weekend was Rendezvous. Dr. Maddix and his wife opened their home and engaged everyone in true fellowship. The smaller group of people made it easier to get to know classmates better. I even learned how to play croquet!"

Scholarships totaling $300,000 gifted to students

The John F. Nagel Foundation donated $300,000 in scholarships to assist students in nursing and science programs, as well as students demonstrating financial need for the 2008 - 2009 academic year.

Created in 1989 as a charitable memorial to John and Jack Nagel, the former family operators of the Nagel Beverage Company Inc., the Nagel Foundation has provided countless scholarships and gifts to charities throughout southwest Idaho.

Curt Goldgrabe of the Nagel Foundation said, "Students in the NNU science and nursing programs are meeting the ever-growing need for qualified healthcare professionals. Providing these scholarships to Idaho students is built on our premise to offer support to students who, without financial assistance, wouldn't be able to attain their goal of furthering their education."

When asked how she benefited from a Nagel Foundation scholarship, recent graduate Tori McKim said, "The scholarship I received was an important factor because it allowed me to better focus on my studies and clinical settings in order to complete my nursing degree at NNU."

Senior earns Congressional Gold Medal

Senior Amanda McGehee, a pre-med major from Ahsahka, Idaho, was awarded the Congressional Award Gold Medal, along with nine other Idahoans, at a ceremony in Washington, D.C. this summer. Amanda logged over 800 hours in community service, personal development and personal fitness.

NNU one of the "Best in the West" universities

In August, the Princeton Review distinguished NNU as one of 120 regional colleges and universities named a "Best in the West" university. Unlike other ranking institutions, the Princeton Review does not use a mathematical formula when rating colleges; instead, it relies heavily on student opinion. Current students respond to a survey about their school's academics/administration, campus life, student body and themselves.

"Universities are selected primarily for their excellent academic programs, and take into account what each school's customers—their students—report to us about their campus experiences on our 80-question student survey," states Robert Franek, Princeton Review's V.P. Publishing.

The Princeton Review distinction was well received by President David Alexander. "The quality of our students and their academic and spiritual experience is of significant importance to us.

The NNU faculty and their commitment to delivering a thought-provoking, inspired educational experience for students, preparing them well for professional careers, is credited in this acknowledgment as "A Best Western College."

U.S. News & World Report recognizes NNU

U.S. News & World Report ranked Northwest Nazarene University as one of the leading universities in the West again in its annual America's Best Colleges edition. NNU advanced in the top tier at number 36 of 116 master's-level universities in the West.

Colleges are ranked on peer assessment, retention and graduation rates, average class size, student-to-faculty ratio, faculty resources, financial resources and the ACT/SAT and high school rankings of incoming freshmen. This ranking validates that the University's solid liberal arts educational core is a key ingredient to the professional success of students.

Five hundred seventy-two universities throughout the U.S. are ranked in the master's-level university category and are divided by region.

Beyond the books ...

student researcher prepares for a medical career

By Ashlee Jerome, Class of 2008

During the last two summers senior Johanna Higdon studied the role alcohol plays in cancer and fetal alcohol syndrome by focusing on the body's processing of vitamin A. As a biochemistry student, she researched their causes, working to pinpoint individuals who are at high risk. Johanna attempted to prove that introducing alcohol into one's system interferes with the body's ability to metabolize vitamin A. Also known as retinol, vitamin A is vital to a person's growth, immune system and eyesight.

After providing retinol to a genetically modified line of cervical cancer cells, Johanna measured the amount of light at specific wavelengths to show how much of a certain molecule (retinaldehyde) was in each sample.

To further understand the metabolism, she compared her results to a model created by her advisor, Dr. Jennifer Chase. "Johanna is the first person to measure how this tumor line processes vitamin A, and she also designed her own method for doing the experiment, which is remarkable," Dr. Chase said. By comparing these results with previous research records, Johanna determined that the processing of vitamin A was indeed taking place in the cells in a way that was not interfered with by ethanol - confirming the model and showing that there were unexpected processing pathways in these cells. These results argue against a prevailing hypothesis of how alcohol harms the body.

"It is very important for me, as a future physician, to understand and appreciate research. Working as an undergraduate researcher at NNU gave me knowledge and confidence and helped prepare me for my future," Johanna explained.

This summer, Johanna received one of 30 Idaho Industrial Development Awards, a biomedical fellowship, from the IDeA Network of Biomedical Research Excellence for her research. The program seeks to increase and improve research opportunities for faculty and students at Idaho colleges and universities.

In addition to her summer research experience, Johanna participated in two medical mission trips sponsored by NNU's School of Health and Science visiting Ukraine in 2007 and, most recently, Mexico in 2008. "The people I encountered inspired me by their perseverance despite some of the circumstances they faced. Our team was able to help many people, and I was able to see how even small things like vitamins or antibiotics can be so beneficial and appreciated."

Johanna, an NNU president's scholar from Cloverdale, Oregon, is very active on campus and participates in a variety of activities from the Hope House ministry to readers' theater and choir. She received numerous honors including the biology and chemistry Outstanding Freshman Award in 2006, and she was named a fellow last year by St. Luke's Mountain States Tumor & Medical Research Institute and the IDeA Network of Biomedical Research Excellence. Johanna plans to continue on to medical school in the fall.

12TH ATHLETIC HALL OF FAME CLASS ANNOUNCED

By Craig Stensgaard,
Sports Information Director

Garry Matlock (front)

Kim (Hazelbaker) Zumhofe

Terry Layton (middle)

Dr. Ed Crawford

Matlock will join NNU's elite Athletic Hall of Fame on Saturday, January 17. The 12th class of Hall of Fame members will be inducted at half-time of the men's afternoon basketball game against Western Oregon University.

"We are pleased to welcome this new class to our Athletic Hall of Fame," comments NNU athletic director Rich Sanders. "This honor recognizes both on-court performance and dedication to the University with over 50 years of combined playing, coaching and service."

Dr. Crawford joins the Hall in the category of meritorious service having served 24 years as the faculty athletic representative for Crusader athletics. In addition to his administrative efforts, Crawford served as head baseball coach from 1978 to 1979 after joining the philosophy and religion faculty in 1976. As a student athlete, Crawford's career was highlighted by a winning pitching performance in the 1957 NAIA District Championship game.

A two-sport athlete at NNU, Kim (Hazelbaker) Zumhofe enters the Athletic Hall of Fame for women's basketball, but was also a standout performer for the Crusader track and field team. With a basketball career that spanned the 1989 to 1993 seasons, Kim currently holds 8 all-time career top ten marks in the basketball record book, including the number 4 position in both career rebounds (891) and career free-throw attempts (425) and the ninth all-time scoring mark with 1,295 career points.

A recipient of the Hopkins-Humphrey Award in both 1992 and 1994, Kim continues to hold the Crusader discus record with a toss of 147-10, set in the spring of 1994.

Men's basketball coach Terry Layton enters the Athletic Hall of Fame having served as head coach for the Crusaders from 1975 to 1982, a tenure spanning seven winning seasons that held a combined win-loss record of 127-82. Coach Layton's winning percentage of 60.7 earned postseason invitations in 6 of his 7 seasons, including 5 straight NAIA District 11 playoff appearances from 1978 to 1982. A tribute to his influence, over 10 former players or assistant coaches have become collegiate coaches, including Crusader head coaches Ed Wiedenbach and Mike Terpstra as well as fellow Hall of Fame members Garry Matlock and Roger Schmidt.

Garry Matlock joins the Athletic Hall of Fame for men's basketball having played for the Crusaders from 1963 to 1966. Garry holds the career assists record at NNU with 524 and is also number one in single-season assists with 260 (1965-66), fifth in all-time career steals (206) and ninth in single-season steals with 77 (1965-66). A two-sport athlete for the Crusaders, Garry played baseball in 1964 and 1966, posted a career .338 batting average, and was awarded the Orrin E. Hills Sports Trophy as a senior. Garry returned to NNU in 1981, serving one year as an assistant to Terry Layton and then 9 seasons (1982-91) as head coach for the Crusader basketball program. During his tenure he also taught in the department of kinesiology and served two years as athletic director.

Alumnus Bryon Knight

joins University Advancement team

Bryon Knight joined the Office of University Advancement on July 1. Bryon brings to NNU a solid and proven background in business development, customer-relationship management, and developing rapport with potential clients for the purpose of business advancement and growth.

Bryon is an NNU alumnus, graduating with a degree in business administration management (class of 1997). Bryon began his working career as a business development specialist for Albertsons Inc., working in the area of corporate real estate. In 2003, he began a four-year stint with TitleOne Corporation in the Boise Valley, as a marketing executive. Immediately prior to coming to NNU, Bryon was a mortgage planner for Affinity Mortgage Corporation in Nampa.

In addition to his community involvements, Bryon attends College Church of the Nazarene in Nampa, where he recently served as a member of the church board and is involved in music ministry. Bryon is married to Karen (Swanson) Knight (class of 1998) and they have three children.

In his position as director of major donor relations, Bryon will focus on the cultivation of community, business, corporate and foundation constituents, as well as assist with campus master planning and capital campaign development and implementation.

Introducing the Charitable Gift Annuity

What people are saying

"I contributed to my first charitable gift annuity with NNU this year because I like the idea of receiving a guaranteed income for life, much of it tax-free, and an income tax deduction for this year. Best of all, eventually this will help fund our family scholarship!"

"It was quick and easy to do. The folks at NNU know what they're doing, and this was a great alternative to my other options."

"We had talked about doing something with the University in our estate plans. ... We're thrilled that we are helping the school and benefiting from a secure retirement income."

Finding security in an unstable economy

It seems nearly every day we hear or read something else about high gas prices, expensive grocery bills, or more hard times in the financial and real estate markets. For this reason many people are looking for more security and higher income as they grow older. Many alumni and friends of NNU have found just that in a charitable gift annuity.

A gift annuity is a plan that provides fixed income for life and leaves a lasting gift to the University. The gift annuity is essentially a contract. An individual transfers assets to NNU in exchange for our promise to pay a fixed stream of income for life. The income can be quite high depending on the person's age. Best of all, a portion of the income stream may be tax-free.

At the present time, annuitants earn income between 3.3% and 10.5%, depending on their age. If the date when payments begin is deferred one year beyond the date the gift annuity is established, the rates can be even higher.

Here are some top benefits of supporting NNU through a gift annuity:

- Satisfying gift to the University
- Fixed income stream paid for life
- Incredible tax savings

For more information about this or other giving options, please contact the Office of University Advancement at 866-467-8987 or online at www.nnu.edu/development.

We look forward to helping you!

Report

"TOMORROW" —Have you thought of the feelings this word evokes in various folks? For some, the word "tomorrow" holds great anxiety and even fear, while for others the word brings forth feelings of hope and excitement.

I've read books and articles by multiple authors who proclaim that the world is changing at a faster rate than mankind has ever before experienced. This rate of change is evidenced by the advent of the home computer and the World Wide Web, the proliferation of cell phones and smart phones, the internet distribution of podcasts to be played on portable media players, the increased volatility of the stock markets and declarations that "the world is flat."

All of these phenomena, and many more, are causing not only extremely rapid change, but also heightened anxiety and fear about what tomorrow holds.

At NNU, we believe that tomorrow holds great promise because we follow a God who is going before us, and because we believe that NNU is preparing students to not only face, but also positively impact, tomorrow. Thus, in a very real sense, all of those who support NNU have a hand in shaping tomorrow today!

On the pages that follow are the names of people and organizations who have supported NNU financially during the University's 2007 to 2008 fiscal year. This financial support is vital to NNU's ability to accomplish its vision—to be a place "where students are prepared to be global Christians through academic excellence, social responsiveness and creative engagement."

So, on behalf of our campus community, please allow me to extend my most sincere gratitude to each and every one who has contributed to NNU in the past year and ask that each of you consider how you can be involved in 2008 to 2009. Together we continue to Shape Tomorrow Today!!

Joel K. Pearsall
Vice President for University Advancement

NNU is blessed to have the support of many foundations, businesses and organizations that have donated $1.4 million toward the construction of the Thomas Family Health and Science Center and funded more than 100 scholarships.

Indeed Grateful

for the many companies that partner with their employees to support education. Several donors have established scholarships by utilizing their employer's matching gift program. One donor contributes $2,000 yearly, and NNU also receives a $2,000 matching gift from his employer. Within three years the $10,000 needed to endow a new scholarship has been met and exceeded!

“I’m able to give, thanks to the education I received at NNU. The scholarships, gifts and financial aid I received as a student —without them I would never have made it to graduation! My contribution is just a gesture of my love, appreciation and relationship to NNU.”

*"God often uses
His people to display His faithfulness to Northwest
Nazarene University ...
I continue to be amazed by what we have accomplished together and by the number of alumni and friends who partner with us on behalf of students."
—Gary Skaggs,
Vice President for University Advancement 1998-2008, Report to the Board of Trustees, October 2007*

*NNU is grateful for the dedicated work and legacy, as is reflected by this report, of the

Randy Bynum -74- has successfully defended his doctoral thesis, completing a Ph.D. in biblical studies from Nazarene Theological College/University of Manchester. Randy's thesis explores the text-critical issues related to the citation of Zechariah 12:10 in John 19:37. It compares John's form of citation to Greek and Hebrew fragments of the minor prophets from the Dead Sea Scrolls discoveries.

Diane Rowen Garmire -75- traveled to Seoul, Korea, along with 19 other teachers from the U.S. this summer. While in Korea, Diane engaged in a variety of cultural events, including teaching Northwest coastal tribal art forms to a class of Korean high school students. The three-week fellowship was awarded to 20 U.S. social studies and humanities teachers.

Pete Mangum -79- recently took the gold medal in the Big Sky State Games in Billings, Mont. He competed in the "Grand Master" Division (age 50+) in disc golf.

1980s

Bart Harmon -82- M.D., MPH and chief medical officer of Harris Corporation's Healthcare Solutions Business, has been named to the American Health Information Community Successor Transition Planning Group. Dr. Harmon is one of 11 distinguished public-private sector healthcare industry leaders in the U.S. to be named to the group.

Mark Johnson -83- received a Master of Arts degree in biblical studies from Dallas Theological Seminary in May 2008.

Bob Nelson -83- has been promoted to captain in the U.S. Navy Reserve and is the commanding officer of the Navy Reserve Region Legal Service Office NW. In his civilian career, Bob is general counsel for Trident Seafoods Corporation in Seattle, Wash.

Dana Hicks -88- successfully defended his doctoral dissertation at Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky.

1990s

Anita Wilson -95- has completed a Master of Arts in counseling. She has worked as a school counselor in the Caldwell School District for the past eight years. She recently completed the Educational Leadership Certification program at NNU. In the 2008-09 school year, she will serve as assistant principal at Caldwell High School.

Chris Field -98- has taken a position as executive editor for Townhall Magazine, a Washington, D.C., area monthly conservative political news publication.

Shelby Schmolinger -98- has taken a position as a clinical research associate at Seattle Children's in Seattle, Wash.

2000s

Jill (Willey) Wright -01- was named the national 2008 Students In Free Enterprise (SIFE) Alumna of the Year in May at its national competition in Chicago, Ill. Each year one outstanding SIFE alumnus is chosen who has used SIFE experience to excel in a career while making a difference in others' lives.

Wright was a founding member of the NNU SIFE team in 1998. As the team's chief executive officer in 2001, the NNU team tripled its membership and number of new projects, increased the size and involvement of its advisory board, and impacted over 1,500 people throughout the Nampa community.

After graduation, Wright remained active with NNU's team, becoming a mentor for its new leadership. Four years later, the SIFE team brought home its first trophy from the national competition. Today, Wright is a member of the NNU SIFE business advisory board and co-developed the Campbell's "Stamp Out Hunger Challenge" for SIFE teams across the nation. Since Wright's leadership, NNU's team earned the regional championship title seven times and placed as first runner-up during the opening round at the 2005 national competition.

Josh Van der Ploeg -06- is in his second year at the University of Michigan Law School and was selected as an editor of the Michigan Law Review (a scholarly journal that each law school publishes). The selection process is a combination of GPA and a writing competition. The Michigan Law Review is very competitive, only accepting 45 editors each year from a class of 360 students.

Alumni Directory Update

NNU has contracted with PCI, an alumni directory publishing company, to compile and update our alumni information. They began communicating with alumni and friends this summer and will continue making contacts throughout the year. The updated directories will be available summer 2009. Please do not hesitate to contact the Alumni Office with any questions or comments regarding this project at (800)654-2411 or alumni@nnu.edu.

Partners in Prayer

With the return of students and faculty to campus comes the return of financial, academic, and family pressures that tend to weigh down our college students. "Partners in Prayer" is an active prayer network that lifts up the needs of students, faculty and staff members. If you would like to participate in this ministry, please call the Alumni Office at 800-654-2411 or sign up online at www.nnu.edu/partners.

Admissions Alert

Would you help match NNU with potential students whom you believe would value the NNU experience? If so, go to www.nnu.edu/studentnames to complete important contact information for those students. Thank you for supporting NNU!
